more. You start with nothing, and by simply reverting the appropriate natural law, you end up with something -- exactly what you want.

For example, you'll see how to use the following techniques to "PROJECT" metaphysically what you want:

1. How to "PROJECT" a much longer life for yourself -- 100 and over is not impossible -- by increasing your own personal charge of "negation."
2. How to "PROJECT" firmer lips, cheeks, smoother skin and a younger look, in general, through the technique "magnetic smoozing."
3. How to "PROJECT" contact with the "Higher Mind" and get explicit advice on any problem having to do with family, neighbors, friends or business.
4. How to "PROJECT" and shape your future in the areas of finance and prosperity with the "Law of Predominant Depression."
5. How to "PROJECT" yourself a "Hypnotic Eye" which can wither and take over any opponent who dares look at it.
6. How to "PROJECT" an Invisible Golden Line of Power which can be placed in another person's mind.
7. How to "PROJECT" messages through brain contact alone. The other person will never know where the message came from. But will think it's his own idea.

Yes, you'll discover all this and more in Anthony Ferrell's speech-making book. You'll see how it all works by reversing many of the traditional laws of nature. Things that were once impossible are now possible.

at new life,

NOW! Through the Incredible Power of—

MENTAL PROJECTION

— You Can "PROJECT" Things Metaphysically Right into Being!

Dear Friend:

Here's news about a revolutionary and potentially earth-shaking PROJECTION mechanism. It's based on a new metaphysical discovery, and is now available in a startling book.

It's true. The famous "20th Century Philosopher," Anthony Norvell, reveals one of the most astounding discoveries ever made: how to use a powerful PROJECTION mechanism to metaphysically transform your thoughts and desires into reality.

Called "MENTAL PROJECTION" this new mechanism can change your entire life -- from the very first moment you turn it on -- money and power appear quite physically, as if out of nothing.

The famous Anthony Norvell explains the transmutation techniques you need to work "MENTAL PROJECTION" -- and tells you with complete details:

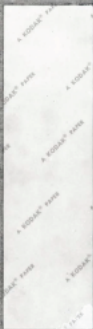

- * How to tune into the "Music of the Spheres" the wavelength over which all "PROJECTION" takes place.
- * How to "PROJECT" yourself into "The Land of Beginning Again" and wipe out all your past mistakes and failures in a single blow, and start over with a clean slate.
- * How to "PROJECT" yourself through a mirror and come out with such dignity, such regal power as one will dare defy you.
- * How to write a sum of money on a slip of paper and "PROJECT" it into becoming yours.

Now I will give you a clear, scientific demonstration of the natural law behind "MENTAL PROJECTION."

HOW YOU CAN TRANSFORM THINGS AND EXPERIENCE

For over 25 years Anthony Norvell, Marched the "Signature of All Ages,"

THE OPINION

AN INDEPENDENT STUDENT PUBLICATION

FRIDAY, JUNE 30, 1966 P. 11

CLARIFICATION

TO WHOM DO THE CENTER BLEACHERS BELONG?

The "OPINION" has made no intentional slanderous snipes at any individual involved in student government. If any person has been unfairly accused of any act constituting poor judgment in execution of duties or otherwise, then apologies are herein being extended to them, and only then. Correct implications are still being withdrawn.

Criticism had been rendered in rather generous amounts in previous literature distributed on the campus. It has been said that these earlier circulars attempted to "force ideas on the student body." Well, it should be remembered that it is up to these same students to accept or reject any ideas that are presented to them.

A number of hastily stated charges have been made against some factions at their forwarding attempts to "take over the government"; they are not true.

Criticism and praise has been and will continue to be rendered by the "OPINION", and no doubt against it, also. This is taken for granted. Your views are welcome.

Seniors are currently discontented with the condition of Senior Privileges, which are very apparent because of their absence.

If the center section of the bleachers is designated to seniors, then why isn't there any enforcement of this favor?

What sort of a farce are the 12th graders falling for when they are supposed to be aroused first at the end of each gathering yet they wind up applauded by a mass of Juniors and Sophomores?

The senior council would seem to give the two lower groups a good chance and a good chance to be late to class wouldn't it? Hehehehe....

Some seniors think that the center section bleachers is stupid, but what has this been offered then? There is no choice involved!

Let's face it Seniors. It's there; there is nothing better in view. You can either take it or leave it.

YOU MIGHT AS WELL

ASSOCIATE EDITOR OF "BLAZER" WRITES ONE LETTERS TO PAPER

Reputable sources directly involved with the "BLAZER" and in student government, have informed the "OPINION" that the editor of page 2 of the former publication has written a number of letters to the "Letters to the Editor" column of his own paper. This makes a wonder if the "BLAZER" is travelled to corners of all parts of the earth, and throughout it all he looked for just one thing -- the power to turn thought into reality. Nowhere was the answer to be had. But finally he discovered that with a certain technique he could create important key laws of nature.

He discovered that he could make it just as easy to create matter, as it would be to destroy it. It's as easy to start out with something -- say a $100 bill -- put a watch to it and end up with nothing. Now he found out, you can start out with nothing, AND END UP WITH SOMETHING.

He could hardly contain his excitement. He tried it once. It worked. He began telling others about it. It worked for them. He called it "MENTAL PROJECTION" and told it on thousands of people so different from you.

DOES BY THOUSANDS OF PEOPLE

- XX Jane Adams was given 6 months to live because she was chronically wasting away. But by giving away a certain part of herself, she was able to "PROJECT" herself practically a whole new body. She lived to bury dear old her doctors.
- XX A woman was 76. She never had a trade or profession but always longed for one. She used the "Invisible Law of Mental Vibration" to "PROJECT" herself a talent. She became a great painter and made it million before she died at over 100.
- XX A young man was caught in a fire. His legs were just about burned away. Doctors feared he would die. He managed to pull through, but without hope of walking again. Yet by contacting the "Cosmic Mind" he was able to "PROJECT" himself a "new" set of legs. A few years later, in the world famous Madison Square Garden, he ran the world's fastest indoor mile.
- XX A man and his wife had little money. But they had their hearts set on owning their own home. They used the technique of "Centre-Syncrator" to "PROJECT" not just an old home, but their dream house. And they got it for less than little money they had.
- XX A certain group of people had no future before them. No money. No contacts. No influence. Yet they wanted to be famous. They used "The Magic Circle" technique to "PROJECT" a great talent into their lives. Later, they all became famous movie stars. You'll recognize their names immediately.
- XX A man had no money all his younger life. His father died at a young age. His mother scraped along by selling biscuits to men for lunch. Then he used the Law of Capillary Action to "PROJECT" great wealth into his life. Before he knew it the biscuit business just grew and grew. He became a multi-millionaire.

Yes, "MENTAL PROJECTION" works. All you need do is use the specific techniques, for the specific things you want.

2025 RELEASE UNDER E.O. 14176

With South African Airlines forbidden to overfly a number of black-African countries, it is currently obliged to skirt West Africa's hump, stopping at Portuguese airports in Angola and Cape Verde Islands.

The new route would be via Tetsuo.

Possible stops along the way: Salisbury, Rhodesia; Blantyre, Malawi; and the islands of Malagasy and Mauritius—both in the Indian Ocean.

These countries can be expected to ignore any sanctions against South Africa. They need all the business they can get.

For South Africans, the route would represent added security in a world increasing its pressures against their nation.

How and why...

Federal government sympathizers in Nigeria have accused Biafra of delaying agreement on the peace talks now under way in Kampala, Uganda.

As for choosing a site, it might have been true. But when it came to setting a date for the peace talks on the Nigerian civil war, both sides jockeyed for a date they hoped would give them a stronger position at the conference table.

The federal government in Lagos proposed May 27 to give Col. Benjamin Adekunle as much time as possible to take Bida's walled city, Port Harcourt.

Biafra, knowing the fall of its city was imminent, wanted a week earlier so the city would still be in its hands when the talks began.

As it turned out, Nigeria's Colonel Adekunle took the city even before Badra's deadline of May 30 — with a day to spare.

As peace talks begin, the city is occupied by federal troops.

Algeria opposes a negotiated Arab-Israeli peace. So does Syria.

They mistrust United Nations special envoy Dagmar Jarring's peace moves.

This was the main reason behind Syrian Foreign Minister Ibrahim Makhou's hurried visit to Algiers last week.

Algeria trains some of the Palestine Arab guerrillas earlier trained in Syria and operating from bases on Jordanian territory.

It is now likely that Algeria will join Syria and Iraq in efforts to unify both the regular Arab military commands and the Palestinian command into one.

Whether these efforts are successful depends in part on Egypt's President Mubarak. Egyptian leaders are skeptical about 1978.

Sen. John L. McClellan (D of Arkansas) stood in the middle aisle of the Senate chamber, facing his critics and speaking with a more fervent voice than he has ever used in the Supreme Court of the United States. A few moments later, too, young Sen. Joseph R. R. (D of Maryland) walked away the side of the aisle, with his hands held in his hand to defend the high court.

The issue they debated was the right of federal courts to review judgments in American judicial system.

By referendum, the issue was denying the right of state courts to review federal courts, whether the present Supreme Court "holding" or not. The second doctrine of Chief Justice John Marshall in McClellan Maryland (opposition of present), and a third doctrine of present issue in the present doctrine.

The average age of the present Supreme Court is 48. Of the four members of the court are 80, one is 77, and one is 86. The high court is deliberately balanced in its view of the commercial issue of protecting corporate rights.

NEW COURT ISSUE

A key vote on McClellan was decided 14-14.

Initially a presidential action two judges in two-year terms, though this does not always happen.

That the vote is decided is that the full court, for the choice of president, may send the case to the Supreme Court by addition of new members.

Richard M. Nixon was already asked the court to review the case of the court in 1954, but the court was not to be reviewed at that time.

Justice said significantly that future efforts should "include in their appointments to the United States Supreme Court... to give them adequate experience and

UN goal: self-rule speedup

The 'realists' are prepared to wait a few years. But the radicals take the General Assembly declaration literally. They want immediate independence for all non-self-governing peoples. Steering a steady course in these currents of contrasting opinions isn't easy. But Mahmoud Mestiri, chairman of the United Nations committee on ending colonialism, is managing it well.

2025 RELEASE UNDER E.O. 14176

In Poland, as elsewhere in the world, Kennedy evokes enthusiasm and admiration by projecting what America and democracy can achieve.

Two long-standing Kennedy concerns: equal rights and opportunity, and the health and welfare of all children.

Few men know the Presidency as well as Robert Kennedy

Few men in government have been so vitally involved in the extraordinary issues and events of this decade.

As a Member of the Cabinet under two administrations, Robert Kennedy helped shape the policies that brought new hope to the nation and to the world. The NEW YORK HERALD-TRIBUNE said: "The Attorney General has been in the center of every crisis, had a hand in every major decision," of the New Frontier.

As a Key Member of the National Security Council, Robert Kennedy played a crucial role in the Cuban Missile Crisis. His advice weighed heavily as the President negotiated a peaceful backdown by Premier Khrushchev and the withdrawal of Russian missiles from Cuban soil. Robert Kennedy also participated in the delicate negotiations leading to the nuclear test ban treaty—the first major step by the United States and the Soviet Union toward disarmament.

As a Member of the Senate, Robert Kennedy has a record of achievement. The WASHINGTON POST wrote: "He has guided more important legislation through Congress than did any of his predecessors in the past 30 years. He has made the Federal Government, for the first time, a vigorous enemy of organized crime. He has pushed equal rights for all Americans . . ."

As Attorney General, United States Senator, and Special Presidential Envoy, Kennedy has traveled through Europe, Eastern Europe, Asia, Africa, and Latin America. The respect he has earned around the world makes Robert Kennedy the most qualified American to enlist the cooperation of other nations in the cause of peace.

As a United States Senator, he has been a leader in candidly discussing the problems vital to the nation: a way out of the war in Viet Nam, full employment, rising taxes, crime in the streets, the desecration of our youth, the pollution of water and air, and the strengthening of the economies of our towns and rural areas. Kennedy pioneered new solutions that will put private industry to work, create new jobs, and help the world's poor.

Robert Kennedy is a man with the energy and experience to take over the most important job in the world.

Kennedy on the Issues

NATIONAL UNITY

"We must close the gaps between black and white, rich and poor, and young and old in this country. Only when everyone has a stake in society will we have a tranquil land. I ran for the Presidency because I want the United States to stand for hope instead of despair, for the reconciliation of men instead of division and discord."

"These are not ordinary times, and this is not an ordinary election. At stake is not simply the leadership of our party or even our country—it is our right to moral leadership on this planet."

LOCAL GOVERNMENT

"We must bring government back to the people. We have learned that Washington can't always know all the answers to a local problem. The people who live in a community know best what they need. The federal government should cooperate with—not dictate to—the state and local agencies, so that each does the job it can do best. This is the way to rebuild the country—by working together."

THE SOUND DOLLAR

"The cost of living in California is rising at a rate of more than 10% every four years. We simply cannot allow inflation to eat into the wage increases of workers and erode the standard of living of the people on fixed incomes. We must protect the value of the dollar and the balance of payments deficit through measures like increased exports, more business-like government operations, reduced budget deficits and more efficient foreign aid programs."

FOREIGN AFFAIRS

"Almost 300,000 Californians are serving in the armed forces in 147 nations around the world. 47,806 entered last year alone. While we have been fed down in Viet Nam, our relations with countries all over the world have deteriorated. We must negotiate as honorable peers and then get down to the job of restoring America's respect. For two years, I have been convinced that our course would not bring victory; would not bring peace; would not stop the withdrawal; and would not advance the interests of the United States. I do not advocate immediate withdrawal or surrender. I favor a fair settlement which will require concessions from both sides."

LAW, ORDER AND EQUAL JUSTICE

"The fight against crime is urgent, not only for the preservation of our property and safety, but also to enable us to continue as a nation which honors personal freedom and respects it as a sacred right of all individuals who violate it. For so man has the right to menace the safety and well-being of his neighbors, and those who lead others to burn and kill must feel the full force of the law."

"But punishment is not prevention. We will reestablish our domestic tranquility only when there is full constitutional justice. Our goal is to put an end to a society where a man wears his color as a badge of inferiority, and to move toward a society where men may exercise their rights as citizens without fear of official hostility or violence. But we have to do more. Much more. The great challenge before us is to give every American the same opportunity to educate his children, provide for his family, live in a decent home and win human acceptance as well as economic achievement."

WELFARE

"It is a disgrace that able-bodied people who want work are on the dole. There should be tax incentives and subsidies to private industry to create new and useful jobs, and there should be programs to train men to fill them. That is the way to restore dignity and family stability to the unemployed, and curb the spiraling cost of welfare that eat up so much of our tax money."

BUSINESS—GOVERNMENT COOPERATION

"We must utilize the skill and talent of our private industry to a greater extent than we have done in the past. The unparalleled ability of our scientists, engineers and businessmen to solve problems and get things done can make the critical difference in improving the quality of American life and speeding in the war on poverty. It can make the difference in the effort to eliminate pollution, reduce medical costs and provide efficient mass transit."

TAXATION

"Property taxes have become an intolerable burden on people. I want legislation that returns a portion of federal tax revenues to the local government to help pay for education, health and other services, and takes the burden off the property owner. I want to make sure that the federal government does not take more than its share."

Soviet writer protests clampdown

By Paul Wood

Writer of The Christian Science Monitor

Deep anxiety has gripped the Soviet Union's writers as the party once more clamps down on them. Some of the best authors have even been threatened with exclusion from the Writers' Union, which is equivalent to a publication ban.

But the writers' spirit has not been broken, as continuing protest letters show. The most recent of these to reach the West was sent to Konstantin Fedin, the president of the Soviet Writers' Union, by Yegor Kuznetsov, a respected novelist and essayist of Konstantin Paustovsky's generation who has open literary views.

At immediate issue is publication of Alexander Solzhenitsyn's "The Cancer Ward," which was set in print but then abandoned at the last minute, according to party instructions. Mr. Solzhenitsyn's worldwide fame was established by his book about Stalin's labor camps. "One Day in the Life of Ivan Denisovich." Manuscripts of the new novel have been circulating for months, and several Western editions are appearing currently.

Letter quoted

"We have known each other for 48 years, Kostya," Mr. Kuznetsov began in his pointed letter to Mr. Fedin against the publication ban "The Cancer Ward."

"In youth we were friends. It was a right to judge one another. It is more than right. It is a duty. Your former friends have wondered more than once what might have guided your behavior during those former remembered events in the life of our literature that forged the souls of some of our best writers. I am sure that you [chronicle] far removed from true art."

"We do not need to be afraid of the senseless and tragic case of Pasternak's novel, a matter that caused our country much harm. Your part in that matter went so far that you had to make believe you did not know of the death of the poet who had been your friend and who had lived alongside you for 23 years. Perhaps you could not see from your window the crowd of thousands that saw him in his last resting place, that here his part your house, or find him alone their heads.

'How could you?'

"How could it be that you not only did not support, but trampled down Literaturnyaya Moskva, an annual anthology that our literature needs? On the very eve of the meeting of 1,500 writers at the Motion Picture Actors' Club you supported this publication. Though your pocket held an already written speech of dangerous betrayal, you praised our work and found no shadow of political mistake in it."

"This is far from all, but I do not intend this letter to sum up your public activity, which is widely known in the writers' community. Not for nothing was your name greeted with utter silence at the celebration of Paustovsky's 55th birthday. I would not be surprised if, now that Solzhenitsyn's 'Cancer Ward' has been banned at your instigation, you would be greeted with whistling and once after being set in type at Novy Mir, your first appearance before any large writers' meeting would be greeted with whistling and stamping feet."

"Do you not realize that the very fact of publication of 'The Cancer Ward' would relax the unprecedented tension in literature, would undermine the undesired mistrust of it, would open the way for other books that would enrich our literature?"

"A. Bely's superb novel, first permitted, then suppressed, but unconditionally approved by the country's best writers, exists in manuscript. K. Simonov's war diaries exist in manuscript. There is hardly a single serious writer who does not have in his desk a manuscript that has been submitted, considered, and forbidden for reasons that are incomprehensible and beyond the bounds of common sense."

"But let us return to Solzhenitsyn's novel. There is not one publishing house or magazine, not one reviewer who when it has been read and that Maslov and Voznesensky were FOR publication of the novel and that the type was ordered down only because you firmly declared yourself AGAINST it."

"This means that the novel remains in thousands of galley proofs, being passed from hand to hand and said, they say, in large sums. This means it will be published abroad. We shall surrender it to the reading public of their, France, Britain, and West Germany, i.e., the very thing that Solzhenitsyn himself energetically and repeatedly protested against will happen."

World fame awaits

"Perhaps persons will be found in the leadership of the Union of Writers who think they will be punishing a writer by surrendering him to foreign literature. They will be punishing him by world fame, which our opponents will utilize for political goals."

"But your action signifies something else also. You are taking a responsibility upon yourself without evidently realizing how huge and significant it is."

A writer who lies the figure with another writer's neck is a figure that will remain in the history of literature, regardless of what the former has written and quite regardless of what the latter wrote. You will perhaps, without suspecting it yourself, become a center of ill will, indignation, and disaffection in the literary community, to ensure your decision."

"You realize without question how difficult it was for me to write this letter to you. But I did not have the right to be silent. I speak a manuscript that has been submitted, January 25, 1963. V. Kaverin"

New look for NATO

An hour's ride from Brussels, a massive new complex of buildings now houses the military headquarters of the North Atlantic Alliance. The new, clean-lined structure symbolizes the new look NATO is getting since it left France.

A new NATO Brussels headquarters matched to evolving role

By Carolyn Morgan

Staff correspondent of The Christian Science Monitor

Paris NATO is renewing itself in more ways than one.

It has new headquarters. It also has a new assignment.

The new place is near Brussels. The new job is defense.

"It's as if wind that blows nobody any good," the man at NATO said. The old-fashioned saying dates from out of place even in that spanking new setting Belgium has provided for the Western Alliance's two European headquarters. The comment is typical. Civilian officials and military officers who have moved with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization from Paris share this attitude.

New life shown

"One of the important results of change is that the alliance seems to be taking on new life," a military officer said.

"That's true," a high official spoke man agreed. "In Paris the NATO system seemed to be running down. It wasn't only because of General de Gaulle. The basic job of making Western Europe militarily secure had been handed out."

But the Gaullist policy did seem aimed to convince us that NATO was a thing of the past. Here we have in a sense begun anew. Even the fact that all the alliance, except for one nation, was willing to put so much money and effort into new headquarters was stimulating. We seem to be on our way again."

A year has passed since President de Gaulle forced withdrawal of the alliance's top military headquarters from France. The move brought the military leadership to Casteau-Brussels. This is a village on the outskirts of Mons, a once-past old town of less than 20,000 people.

'Wilderness' transformed

Here, an hour's auto ride from Brussels, a massive new complex of buildings stood ready in April, 1967, to house SHAPE (Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers Europe) under 24 flags of the 35-nation North Atlantic Treaty Organization. The buildings were on land that had been described as a "stuffy wilderness" when the builders were planning it up in the winter months.

Then a few months later a new civilian headquarters was completed. There all 15 NATO flags can fly, including the tricolor of France.

France has pulled out of the integrated military activities of the alliance. But it keeps a seat in its civilian "cabinet," the North Atlantic Council. So in the austere, grayish-yellow buildings not far from the center of Brussels, France cooperates with "the new NATO" to relax European tensions.

"The French seem to drag their feet but they at least take part, and we are glad to have them," non-French officials agree.

'Harmel Report' ready

So NATO now has approval by all 15 members for its "Harmel Report." This originally seemed to run counter to President de Gaulle's ideas in two ways. The report, prepared by outgoing Belgian Foreign Minister Pierre Harmel, said there was real need to maintain a deterrent against possible Communist aggression in Europe at a time when the French President was denigrating the alliance and conducting a personal campaign to make friends with the Soviet Union.

It also assumed that NATO a new peacekeeping role, but one which conflicted with President de Gaulle's convictions. He held that this role should be performed by countries separately and not by a collective effort in NATO.

Even though the French are not very enthusiastic about the Harmel Report, they have endorsed it. This has narrowed a little the gap that was widening between France and NATO in 1967.

But the report has watered down the hopes of Nationalists who wanted the alliance to take strong collective moves for relaxing world tensions. NATO now acts mainly as a clearinghouse and for consultation among nations making their own move to improve contact with East European countries.

New buildings better

Among physical gains accruing from NATO's removal from Paris are the new buildings. Both the $32 million SHAPE complex near Mons, and the new NATO offices have been planned for efficiency on the basis of years of experience in the Paris region. There is no possible comparison between the former three-story and undermanned military headquarters building at Roggenbeek, near Paris and the new vast, clean-lined structure at Mons.

A still larger gain is psychological. Both the military and civilian organizations feel welcome in their new locations. Members of the staff say so readily. Belgian citizens today confirm this feeling of welcome.

"At first," a small Belgian businessman told this writer, "we did share some anxieties. But they have passed."

"We thought that if we demand for apartments and houses would cause rents to rise. Some of our people did try to overcharge the NATO folk. But the building boom plus some older unoccupied dwellings helped to prevent a rent inflation."

Then also, the alliance authorities here have provided housing for their own people. This has reduced pressure on local housing."

Traffic a threat

This man was speaking of both Brussels and Mons. But in Mons itself the worry was not only about housing. "Suppose," said a SHAPE officer, "that most of the 8,000 people at SHAPE descended on Mons for an evening, bringing into its narrow, winding, hilly old streets about 4,000 automobiles."

"Of course, it wouldn't happen just like that," a Mons citizen replied, "but it figures give you an idea of the possibilities."

What has actually happened is that most of the 4,000 people at SHAPE find their entertainment on the big base. There are clubs for officers, for non-commissioned officers, and for enlisted men. There is a fine theater and an enormous bowling alley. A youth center provides dance on Friday and Saturday nights.

Local schools have been spared any great influx of children from SHAPE. The base includes five schools. Only the children of parents who live away from the base use the Belgian schools.

All this tends to keep friction between the military base and nearby civilian communities at a minimum.

Bargain, bargain, who's got it?

Candid consumer

By Yvonne Horton
Some consumers writers of
The Christian Science Monitor
Riddle: "When is a bargain not a bargain?"
Answer: "When you don't need it."
Sometimes free gifts are nonbargains, too, as illustrated by these excerpts from a reader's letter:
"In conversation with friends and neighbors, there has often cropped up the question of whether or not to continue sending in labels, tags, etc. from products in exchange for monetary refunds or coupons for free products. Some women said they kept no track of what they sent in but had noticed a discrepancy in the returns; but the majority seemed to feel that they were sending in more 'money back' requests than they were receiving. 'In the course of six months, I sent in 25

'money back' or 'free-product' coupons and made a typewritten list. . . Of the 25 I sent in, I received 12 returns. Some took up to three months to reciprocate; some never did."
"What experience have [other readers] had with the percentage of returns from offers? Does it really pay to pursue this line of refund with meager returns?" It certainly lowers your all-over return when you figure [the mailing costs of] all unsolicited refunds," (Mrs. R. G. S., Minneapolis).
You are right in realizing that "free" products do involve some expense—certainly to the manufacturer, and often to the consumer. If the desired were only to give a consumer, a present, a manufacturer might as well mail one to each 25th (for example) name in a telephone book.
Sometimes it helps to ask yourself, "What does the manufacturer expect from me in return for this free(?) gift or coupon?"

Did I buy more, or bigger, oranges because I'm getting 25 cents back? Have I given my new brand or product a fair trial before deciding whether to buy it?"
A manufacturer should keep his promises about coupons, as well as about other things. But each case needs to be judged on its own merits.
"Could you tell me how long it is safe to keep opened evaporated milk in the refrigerator?" (Mrs. D. A. F., Coos Bay, Ore.).
Refrigerated opened evaporated milk will keep about a week. If the milk is always kept cold it will stay sweeter longer than if it is sometimes allowed to stand at room temperature.
One home economist who works for a dairy council reports that she has kept evaporated milk, opened, for as long as 10 days by taking it out of the refrigerator only long enough to pour out the

Let's have corned beef. It has a broader scope than New England boiled dinner. There's even more to it than the popular Reuben sandwiches although the multi-thin slices of corned beef layered with sauerkraut and Swiss cheese on rye bread are hard to beat.

Corned beef is so readily available in plastic sacks in all meat markets these days that you are almost tempted if you do not develop a corned beef repertoire. Let's start "from scratch." There will be directions on the package for boiling the meat. The length of time will vary with the weight of the meat, of course, but you should count on at least three hours. In the warm summer months it can be cooked in the cool of the evenings or early morning. Some meat companies produce a corned beef package which they recommend baking, so check the directions.

Remove the plastic bag, cover the corned beef with water (no salt needed). You have a choice of seasonings. Two or three garlic cloves, three or four cloves, one good sized onion, sliced; and six or seven peppercorns are basic. Two or three lemon slices add zest, and if you like bay leaf you may add one or two. Simmer gently until tender when tested with the tines of a meat fork. Then either lift out of the liquid and drain or take out the meat just before completely done and glaze it.

Orange-glazed corned beef

4-5 pound corned beef brisket
1/2 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1/4 cup frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed

1 tablespoon prepared mustard
1 teaspoon prepared horseradish

Cook corned beef brisket as directed on package label (or as suggested above). Drain and place meat in a shallow baking pan. Mix brown sugar, orange juice concentrate (undiluted), mustard, and horseradish. Brush meat using half the glaze. Place in 400 degree F. oven for 15 minutes. Spoon remaining glaze over meat, and return it to oven for 15-20 minutes, or until completely tender. Slice thin across the grain. Garnish with orange slices. Serves six to eight persons.

Now that you have your barbecuing equipment ready to use, you may want to finish up the corned beef on the barbecue for the addition of the smoky taste of the charcoal. Start with it "nearly done," spear it with the spit and broil frequently with the orange glaze for at least a half hour, until thoroughly tender. Or use a basic glaze.

WOMEN TODAY

Basic glaze

1/4 cup brown sugar, or dark syrup or honey
1/4 teaspoon dry mustard, or 1/2 tablespoons prepared mustard

1 garlic clove or 1 teaspoon ginger, or cinnamon, or 1/4 teaspoon allspice
If you find Hungarian-style mixed pickles in your market you can plan a wonderful "one-plate" meal around a boiled corned beef brisket. If you cannot find these pickles make your own concoction by mixing a small can of sauerkraut with a jar of dill pickles, adding green tomato pickles and peppers if available. Let them stand together at least overnight. Add equal parts of vinegar and water to make a complete cover of juice.

Place the well-drained corned beef in the center of your most attractive platter and surround it with a mound of the Hungarian pickles, a stack of thinly sliced Swiss cheese, and piles of dark rye bread. The corned beef can be hot or cold, but always sliced very thin. If you have time to let it cool thoroughly, even stand in the refrigerator, before slicing cross-grain you can produce practically carved slices. Reheat by wrapping it in foil and placing in a 325 degree F. oven for about a half hour, or until even the middle slices are hot. What a perfect summer supper or Saturday lunch.

Mixed corned beef salad

1 1/2 cups corned beef (or 1 can) crumbled
2 cups finely cut celery
1 cup mayonnaise

1/4 cup chopped dill pickle (sweet, if taste preferred)
4 hard cooked eggs, chopped
2 tablespoons chopped onion

1 tablespoon horseradish
1 small can chopped ripe olives
Mix these ingredients and add to conventional gelatin recipe.

1 envelope unflavored gelatin dissolved in 1/2 cup cold water, then add
1 1/2 cups hot tomato juice
1/4 cup lemon juice
1/4 teaspoon salt

When this begins to thicken, add corned beef mixture and mold into individual molds, a ring mold or fancy salad mold. Serve eight to 10.

What's ahead...

Opponents of President Tubman are refusing Liberia's relative calm.

But so far there is no sign that his hold on the government as an elected official—dating back to 1943—is slipping.

One of his opponents, Henry Fahuolu, is said to have circulated anti-Tubman tracts while he was Ambassador to Nairobi, Kenya.

This naturally rubbed Mr. Tubman the wrong way. Mr. Fahuolu went on trial next month, charged with treason and plotting with the Chinese Communists to overthrow the President.

Mr. Fahuolu is not a member of Liberia's ruling caste of families—freed slaves who came from America to found the nation in the early 1800's.

His position is that Liberia should be ruled by the new more populous Liberians whose ancestors never saw a slave ship.

Tubman opponents criticize his close ties with Washington.

But two American Peace Corps workers who are said to have made anti-Tubman remarks in a classroom have been ordered to leave the country.

Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia are taking advantage of Moscow's preoccupation with the East-West ferment to tighten their own ties with Africa.

Trade specialists and diplomats from Yugoslavia are following up visits earlier this year by President Tito to nearly a dozen African nations.

Result: A wave of new trade and cultural pacts, plus more trips to Belgrade by Africans.

Yugoslavia, Moscow's old maverick, would like to emerge as the main champion of "democratic" socialism, which appeals to many African statesmen.

Czechoslovakia, Moscow's new maverick, is one of the few socialist countries with genuinely commercial (as opposed to political) interests in Africa. As far as Africa is concerned, Prague is playing cautiously its new independence from the Soviet Union.

But Prague Radio's high-powered African shortwave service assures its listeners that a "critical examination" of its foreign policy means no great change in its relations with third-world countries.

South Africa is seeking a new air route to the Southwest.

With South African Airlines forbidden to overfly a number of black-ruled territories, it is currently obliged to skirt West Africa's hump, stopping at Portuguese airports in Angola and Cape Verde Islands.

The new route would be via Tzanzania.

Possible stops along way: Salisbury, Rhodesia; Blantyre, Malawi; and the islands of Malagasy and Mauritius—both in the Indian Ocean.

These countries can be expected to ignore any objections against South Africa. They need all the business they can get.

For South Africans, the route would represent added security in a world spreading its pressures against their nation.

How and why...

Federal government sympathizers in Nigeria have accused Biafra of delaying agreement on the peace talks for under way in Kampala, Uganda.

As for choosing a site, it might have been true. But when it came to setting a date for the peace talks on the Nigerian civil war, both sides jockeyed for a date they hoped would give them a stronger position at the conference table.

The federal government in Lagos proposed May 27 to give Col. Benjamin Adekunle as much time as possible to take Biafra's major city, Port Harcourt.

Biafra, knowing the fall of its city was imminent, wanted a week earlier so the city would still be in its hands when the talks began.

As it turned out, Nigeria's Colonel Adekunle took the city even before Biafra's deadline of May 28 with a day to spare.

As peace talks begin, the city is occupied by federal troops.

Algeria opposes a negotiated Arab-Israeli Peace. So does Syria.

They mistrust United Nations special envoy Gunnar Jarring's peace mission.

This was the main reason behind Syrian Foreign Minister Ibrahim Mahabib's hurried visit to Algeria last week.

Algeria trains some of the Palestine Arab guerrillas earlier trained in Syria and operating from bases on Jordanian territory.

It is now likely that Algeria will join Syria and Iraq in efforts to unify both the regular Arab military commands and the Palestinian command groups.

Whether these efforts are successful depends in part on Egypt's President Nasser. Egyptian leaders are dubious about unification schemes.

They feel both Syria and Algeria—where President Boumedienne recently narrowly escaped assassination—ought to deal first with urgent internal problems.

Peace bid coming?
Kremlin discussion with Britain
hints effort to pave Viet path

By Saville R. Davis
Staff correspondent of
The Christian Science Monitor

Paris

The ripples of the Paris talks are spreading wider as the two parties continue with their disagreements here.

In Moscow a meeting of the co-chairmen of the 1964 Geneva conference—the Soviet Union and Great Britain—could have important repercussions here.

In Paris the Marxist leaders, who have officially ignored the Paris talks although they publicly advised the North Vietnamese not to negotiate, have begun to show selectivity in this direction. The publication in Hanoi of news from the conference is noted here.

By initiating the visit of British Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart, the Soviet leaders appear to have made their first modest step open toward the West in recent weeks.

It comes at a time when the United States is urgently pressing Hanoi for some form of military "constraint" on that President

Johnson could end the bombing of North Vietnam.

[Ambassador W. Averell Harriman of the United States and Xuan Thuy of North Vietnam met Wednesday for the fourth full-scale session of the Vietnam preliminary peace talks.]

The United States is known to have sought Soviet assistance privately on at least one occasion since President Johnson's March 31 speech, but without visible result. Among other things the timing was probably inappropriate.

However, the following statement from Mr. Johnson's March 31 speech has remained an open invitation and even a plea: "I call upon the Soviet Union and I call upon the Soviet Union, as co-chairmen of the Geneva conference and as permanent members of the United Nations Security Council, to do all they can to move from the ideological area of devaluation that I have just announced toward genuine peace in Southeast Asia."

The Moscow talks, which surely will include Vietnam, are on this background: The Soviet Union has an especially Wayne Morse sat on a pile of hay in the warm Oregon sun and listened intently to a constituent's complaint.

Bob Duncan, had a state away, bounded down the tuna cannerly line playing "a go" I recommend highly for the United States Senate"—himself.

In their own circles these two men are running for the same office. Both are Democrats. Both are well respected. Whichever one wins Oregon's Senate primary next week will undoubtedly be the senator from this green-fertile state. Either one is expected to beat Republican Robert Packwood this fall.

The Morse-Duncan race is a tense, close struggle of an aspiring new generation politician against what is virtually an Oregon political institution. And the name clearly is the institution himself—Senator Morse.

A controversial figure

Bush-browed and blond, Wayne Morse

is independent, contrived, maverick-minded, and a gadfly to presidents. And that is both his strength and his weakness.

He was one of the first doves to fly against the Johnson administration's Vietnam policy. He has been perhaps the war's most flame-throwing critic ever since.

Robert B. Duncan, 30 years younger than Morse, is a political pragmatist—and a good one. He was an Oregon congressman for two terms. In the first, the Capital press corps voted him one of the four "outstanding freshman congressmen."

In 1965 he dove that over to run for the Senate against Republican Mark Hatfield. He narrowly lost by only 24,000 votes.

He carried the lance of administration

Sen. John L. McClellan (D) of Arkansas stood in the middle aisle of the Senate chamber, flailing his arms and speaking with a voice hoarse with passion as he assailed the Supreme Court of the United States.

A few minutes later, from young Sen. Joseph D. Tydings (D) of Maryland walked down the side aisle gesticulating with the gloves held in his hand to defend the high court.

The issue they debated was the right of criminal suspects to certain safeguards in the American judicial system.

By expounding the issue also involves the position of state courts vis-à-vis federal courts; whether the present Supreme Court is "codifying" criminals the ancient doctrine of Chief Justice John Marshall in McCulloch v. Maryland (separation of powers), and the red-hot political issue of crime in the 1968 presidential election.

The average age of the present Supreme Court is 64. Of the four seniors of the court two are 60, one is 71, and one is 82. The high court is delicately balanced in its view of the controversial issue of protecting suspects' rights.

Nixon raises issue

A key case—Miranda—was decided 1 to 4 in 1966.

Normally a president names two judges in a four-year term, though this does not always happen.

What the abeyance means is that the fall election, by its choice of president, may well decide the course of the Supreme Court by the addition of new members.

Richard M. Nixon has previously raised the issue. In his 3,000 word statement on crime May 8, he criticized the present majority of the high court in the Miranda case, charged that "a majority of one" has created a "barred view of legislation" which has "effectively abolished hundreds of criminals."

Mr. Nixon said significantly that future presidents should "incumbent in their appointments to the United States Supreme Court men who are thoroughly experienced and versed in the criminal laws of the land."

Mr. Nixon's supporters of Title II in the pending criminal law, underwriting recent Supreme Court decisions, which was the subject of the McClellan-Tydings clash, is evenly split and even passionately opposed by some legal scholars.

Factions cross party lines

Before the vote Mr. Tydings put into the record a list of opponents of Title II—the board of governors of the American Bar Association, which sets policy for a membership of 180,000 lawyers.

He also listed the Judicial Conference of the United States; 200 legal scholars from 43 law schools.

Two Democratic presidential candidates, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy of New York and Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota, were named against controversial Title II. Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey has stated that he opposes it.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy (D) of Massachusetts charged Senator McClellan had "packaged against crime." Sen. Charles H. Percy (R) of Illinois, a possible vice-presidential candidate, voted "aye" to postpone action on Title II.

But a bipartisan group of angry senators including Everett McKinley Dirksen (R) of Illinois and leaders of the Southern conservatives vigorously disagreed.

Provision knocked out

In a voice house with emotion Mr. McClellan cried:

"If this effort to deal with these erroneous court decisions is defeated, every young and overworked of the underworld, every syndicate chief, racketeer, gambler, hoodlum, seignior, private, puny, and bottom in organized crime; every murderer, rapist, robber, burglar, terrorist, and every man will have cause to rejoice and celebrate!"

The Senate knocked out of the crime control bill a provision that would have stripped the Supreme Court of authority to reverse state court rulings accepting confessions as voluntarily given.

The vote was 52-48 and favored voters making the voluntariness of confessions the only test of their admissibility in federal criminal trials.

The 52-48 Miranda decision requires that a defendant be warned by police on arrest that he has a right to remain silent; that anything he says may be used to his detriment; that he has the right to the presence of counsel while being interrogated; and that counsel will be provided if he cannot afford one to retain one. It calls for procedures similar to those adopted voluntarily earlier by the FBI.

The Miranda case is only one of a series of rulings adopted by the court-minded Supreme Court majority in the politically hazardous move to liberalize the rights of suspects in criminal cases.

The present high court has two members appointed by Franklin D. Roosevelt, four by Dwight D. Eisenhower, one by John F. Kennedy, and two by President Johnson.

Whatever Congress does with the pending crime bill—possibly facing a presidential veto if it retains Title II—the ultimate trend of the closely divided court may depend on the fall election.

Bargaining power grows

Public-employee strike rights?

Experts in labor-management relations have been asked to respond to a recent Monitor report on collective bargaining. Several met last week in Washington, compiled by Ed Townsend, today's discussion asks: what about public-employee unions and strikes?

Special to The Christian Science Monitor

New York
The recent Memphis strike of Negro garbage men, members of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, was a public-employee strike with strong civil-rights overtones.

Even so, it demonstrated once again that public workers, once substantially unorganized, are developing muscle and military. Today they are a labor force that can't be ignored.

William E. Simkin, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, recently said that the "new wave" of public employees is roughly parallel to the situation in the mass-production industries in the 1930's, as factory workers engaged in sit-down strikes and other demonstrations because they felt they needed organization and military to keep pace with workers in other industries.

According to Mr. Simkin, teachers and other public workers "heretofore substantially unorganized" are now "beginning to unionize and that as they do strikes are inevitable" and their threat will be even more so.

Spokesmen for the American Federation of Teachers and the American Federation of State, County, and Municipal Employees don't hedge even a little on that. They say the strikes of 1967 were "only the beginning" and predict there will be even more this year.

This is a matter of public concern. The strikes are against the public, and the bargaining and strike rights are considered complex problems. There is concern about the rights of the public employee. Serious studies are under way, seeking a balanced estimate.

One of those involved is Theodore W. Kheel, New York lawyer, mediator, and arbitrator whose testimony was sought by the New York Legislature in hearings called to seek equity in law for all public-employee disputes.

Earlier, in an interview with The Christian Science Monitor, Mr. Kheel said that public employees should have a right to bargain collectively, that if they do not have the possibility of strikes, but that the right to strike must be subordinated to "superior public rights" if danger to life and property should be involved. However, strikes are curtailed, he said, "because the public must be protected."

Others of a panel of experts who replied to The Christian Science Monitor questions on this subject showed a divergence of views.

Howard Jensen, vice-president and general counsel, Lowes Ship Company: "It is completely inconceivable to me that a theory of government which is responsible to its citizens and taxpayers is permitted to bargain between employees and government which has the inevitable effect of imposing new taxes not authorized by the voter or legislature. I agree that bargaining implies the right to strike. For this reason, I think collective bargaining by public employees should not be permitted."

Dr. Merlino Handaker, director of Department of Economics, Lafayette College, veteran arbitrator:

"Many public workers now have the right to organize and negotiate, but it's illegal for them to strike. I think that they should be allowed to strike, but some machinery must be established as an alternative to the strike." Dr. Handaker is basically in agreement with a principle of the International Labor Organization in Geneva, that if the right to strike is denied to government workers, they should be given conciliation procedures in use and, if necessary, access to an arbitration board whose awards should be fully and promptly implemented.

"It may finally be necessary to rethink the whole matter of labor relations involving public employees, but for the time being I think it is worthwhile and interesting to experiment with laws on compulsory arbitration on the matter of compulsory arbitration in private disputes. It is a very real possibility that compulsory arbitration in private disputes discourages good, bad collective bargaining. The parties are faced with a strike deadline, which often brings about a settlement."

"This is often true in the private sector, but it may not be the case in disputes involving public employees. Dr. Handaker, who concludes he finds himself 'in some disagreement with some of my colleagues' on the matter of compulsory arbitration in public employee bargaining disputes.

I. W. Abel, president, United Steelworkers of America: "I am a firm believer in the right of teachers and public employees to organize unions and to bargain collectively. . . . Where a strike might be deemed to be a threat to the safety or health of patients or the public, then the minimum right . . . should include binding arbitration of disputes. . . . I am thinking particularly of situations involving police and firemen, the schoolteachers, without question, should have the right to strike."

Charles Clegg, president, American Federation of Teachers: "The government, in its employment relationship, should be a model employer and therefore should be the first to grant the democratic and effective means of collective bargaining and the strike. All talk of government being exempt from the right to be subject to the strike weapon is completely ungrounded in a democratic society. . . ."

"Work stoppages by teachers in the form of strikes and mass resignations . . . are healthy signs of our society, rather than developments to be deplored. . . . Teachers, as well as other public employees, have already indicated, with a growing show of courage and determination, that they will not allow their employment to be treated as a repressive legislation and court decisions. . . . In effect, the bargaining process in the public sector must be brought up to the highest possible level of democratic functioning."

Collective bargaining:

Secretary of Labor, Richard Wright: "It is today perfectly clear that 10,000,000 (M) American citizens, government employees, are not going to accept an employment relationship 'which is built on the notion that their employers receive a sovereignty which makes it less majestic to file a grievance and which equates disagreement—'at least if it is organized—'with dishonor. . . ."

It might be accepted generally that some effective form of bilateral and representative labor relations is inevitable, is proper, and most of all is desirable in public employment in this country. . . . To whatever extent the development of new doctrines—jointly by representatives of all who will be affected of public employment relationships is found or is permitted to center around the argument about whether there is a right of public employees to strike, that development is going to be at best delayed, or worst defeated. . . ."

Every strike by policy strike creates at least as great a crisis of public confidence as before a crisis of taxation or education or whatever else may be involved. . . ."

The most drastic suggests provisions for organizational and representative rights for all public employees, substantially similar to those provided by Wagner and Taft-Hartley Acts for private employees, plus an authority for handling organizational and representative disputes. . . . he calls for "some place, place, whether in executive, independent, or legislative office, across the table from somebody with the authority and the courage to say 'I will stand up to this.'"

On strikes Mr. Wright says: "An attempt to distinguish between various kinds of governmental functions in terms of their essentialities seems to me fruitless and futile. . . . I am not a federalist, in my understanding of it, so much essential than school teachers. . . . Every governmental function is essential in the broadest terms. . . ."

The only supplier of the service involved—and there is a serious question in my mind about the legitimacy of any strike which deprives the public of something it needs very much and which it can get elsewhere else, I come to the conclusion that the only way to guarantee a reasonable and a fair procedure with independent, third-party determination. . . ."

New England, politically, is Kennedy country—right? Well, not quite right at this point in Senator Kennedy's campaign.

Senator Robert F. Kennedy (D) of New York is running into rough sledding in his efforts to nail down control of delegations from his native New England to the Democratic National Convention.

Of the 122 delegations already chosen in Massachusetts, Maine, and New Hampshire, the New Yorker can count only 10 first-ballot votes for his presidential candidacy at the Chicago convention.

Mr. Kennedy, on the other hand, has 33 first-ballot votes, and Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey has 19½ votes. President Lyndon B. Johnson has five favorable New Hampshire votes.

Probably the biggest New England setback to date for Senator Kennedy came last weekend when the Maine Democratic State Convention named a delegation which observers say will give Vice-President Humphrey 19½ votes, Senator Kennedy 6½ votes, and Senator McCarthy one vote.

It was regarded as a major Humphrey victory in Senator Kennedy's own backyard. . . . Actually, the Maine convention's pro-resolution decision of the 30-member delegation (D) of Maine to Sen. Edmund D. Muskie (D) of Maine was a favorite son. This was regarded as a holding action by the Vice-President Humphrey. Senator Muskie is being touted as a possible vice-presidential running mate for Mr. Humphrey with the presidential nomination.

The Maine convention's action was a setback for Gov. Kenneth M. Curtis, who sometime ago announced his support for Senator Kennedy. . . . A similar situation faces Vermont Gov. Francis B. Brown, first Democratic Governor in the nation officially to desert President Johnson in favor of Senator Kennedy. The Hoff action predicted the Johnson announcement that he would not seek reelection.

Humphrey strong
Although it had been speculated that Governor Hoff's action would swing Vermont's Senate delegation behind Senator Kennedy, it now appears that Vice-President Humphrey will have the largest share of the delegation at the convention next weekend. There is some speculation that Mr. Humphrey will win 20 votes, and Senator Kennedy and McCarthy six votes each.

The 73 Massachusetts votes already are in the McCarthy column as a result of Sen. McCarthy's victory in the April 20 pre-necessary for setting new contract disputes, and which does not include the strike."

Jeffrey Wurl, president, American Federation of State, County, and Municipal Employees:

"Public employees want to be workers in a free society. They want to have a free choice of employment. . . . It is not fair to have bargaining with dignity and status in an effort to mutually solve problems rather than have the other fellow shove them into a position where they have to take a strike at bargaining table, they have got to have something to deal with. . . . They don't want the right to strike for the privilege of walking around the building . . . but to bargain as equals."

Mr. Wurl says that repressive laws "passed to prevent striking usually have resulted in strikes and generally have made it almost impossible to settle things quickly. . . . We had to find a way around the unreasonable statute." And he says, "I can't agree that a strike of teachers is the same as a strike of policemen. I just don't really believe that the community can stand a strike of policemen."

George H. Hildebrand, professor, New York School of Industrial and Labor Relations, Cornell:

"I think I differ with Mr. Kheel. I think it is possible to develop a system of collective bargaining in the public services that excludes work stoppages. . . . I think there is no feasible way to sort out the activities of government, declaring that stoppages are illegal for some but not for others. As a general rule, the services of government are essential to the community and are essential to their users. If so, continuing operations will be essential."

The most drastic prohibition in the public sector is to protect the independence of public sector management. . . . The system is not collective bargaining, but rather one of political influence. There is an essential difference between influence, but it should not be confused with genuine collective bargaining. . . ."

"What must be done to make effective bargaining work for public employees? A system of bargaining must be developed for negotiating concerning representation and for dealing with the 'political influence' of the public sector. Many difficult questions are involved here, such as the timing of negotiations, the role of the mediator, the role of mediation and at whose expense, the role of the arbitrator, and so on. . . ."

I prefer talk backed up with recommendations, backed by independent agency or lockouts, as the terminal step in this procedure. . . . However, I do not think that public management is not bound to accept limitations of service difficult, or impossible. . . . There simply is no 100-per-cent mechanical solution to these problems. . . ."

Last of a series.

Businessmen recruit hard-core unemployed

By Mary Kelly

New York
A prominent New York businessman was asked recently by a youth if he would give the youth a job. The young man had served time in a reformatory and since taken special training.

"Yes, I would, and I'm sure a great many other businessmen would," was the reply.

The businessman was Floyd B. Hall, chairman of Eastern Eastern Labor and the New York metropolitan area chairman of the National Alliance of Businessmen. The alliance has embarked on a drive to recruit for hard-core unemployed. The 19-year-old was a participant in a National Broadcasting Company radio program, the Dorothy Green Youth Forum.

Eagerly awaiting Mr. Hall's answers were five youths who had come to ask:

"What job chance for me—a dropout?"
In a subsequent interview, Mr. Hall explained that he had previously talked with a particular boy, known to him as "Dorothy," and found him convinced that his life's route would only get him into more trouble.

Personal interest
"If a person makes a mistake, he should not forever be condemned, in my opinion," Mr. Hall said in the interview. "I would show personal integrity, his request for a job, and I would be well served. I feel I have asked our individuals to have a look at these fellows."

The social problems of the big cities are urgent, he explained. But finding jobs for them in the nation's economy is a matter of going along in a routine way with these new demands, according to Mr. Hall. It should be backed by individual and personal interest in the unemployed person.

Putting them in the most menial job they can get for will, he said over the air, "It isn't a statistical venture. It's a human venture. I want to give these young men and women chance for getting a job and a better life. It will lead them personally into better things and a better life for themselves."

His own firm seeks to match these young people with the right jobs. An effort is made to deal with the "dormant" or "latent" spiritual" reasons for lack of motivation, he said.

Chance for advancement, too, is in the picture. At airport jobs, the hard-core unemployed are not to be left out, he said, and go on to being flight-control messengers.

Sales-tax revenues rising
By a staff writer of The Christian Science Monitor

Boston
State sales taxes have become permanent residents in most states. And they don't appear to be ready to move.

State sales taxes will raise more money this year than they did in fiscal 1967, projects Commerce Clearing House. Last year revenues reached $8.9 billion—more than a fourth of the total $21.5 billion in state tax collections for 1967, says the Commerce Clearing House.

Already this year, some states are raising their sales-tax rates. Florida has gone up from 3 to 4 percent, Kentucky from 3 to 4 percent. And a sales-tax increase from 3½ to 4 percent has cleared one house of the Mississippi Legislature while a bill has been introduced in Congress to raise the District of Columbia tax from 3 to 4 percent.

Only Nevada, Idaho, Montana, New Hampshire, Oregon, and Vermont—remain sales taxless.

and eventually to tasks involving contact with the public. Improvement in dress and appearance comes with self-discipline, even before total rehabilitation, he said.

Educational upgrading
"No one expects them to be 100 percent productive at first," he added. "They usually need help along the way."

Eastern sponsors several programs including Operation Summer Jobs to assist youths in getting employment. Educational grants are provided through adult schooling and vocational assistance or apprenticeships.

The national goal in the drive is 300,000 jobs for the unemployed by 1971. In metropolitan areas hopes to find company food for about 10,000 adults, the hard-core unemployed. The drive was started March 13.

How is it going?
"Somewhat disappointingly," says Mr. Hall. "The need for an effective task as great, one would not expect to find the young people to be as motivated as I have the feeling many businessmen do not believe this is the answer—there are so many 'programs,' they're ready to do just another one."

"I feel I believe that if every one of them would work just a little at it, we could reduce our taxes paid for public welfare. We spend $3 billion on welfare. . . ."

"We make huge investments for machine tools and produce the wealth. Why not invest in people?"

Certain firms have been most cooperative. Mr. Hall noted. One company found that out of 81 disadvantaged youths it took 29 graduates and 45 got permanent jobs.

"They are not totally altruistic in our efforts," he said. "They are looking for self. When you pull them along, they prove they can contribute."

Sitar 'boom' helps India
By the Associated Press

New Delhi
India is enjoying a boom in the export of its traditional stringed instrument, the sitar.

Figures given Parliament showed India earned $72,000 in export of musical instruments during the first 10 months of fiscal 1967-68, compared with $10,000 during the same period of the previous year. The United States imported 2,316 instruments during the same period, compared with 285 the previous period.

The record fell far below an interest cost on equipment paid by Pacific Gas & Electric Company last Dec. 4.

Stock-market comment
John W. Schulte of Wells & Co.: "There is no technical indication that the intermediate uptrend from the March 1966 low has terminated."

However, there seems to be no basis for unrealistic bullishness that could carry the averages consistently beyond their recent highs during the volatile future.

The diagrams illustrate the following types of chemical bonds:

- 1. Ionic bond: Shown as two separate spheres, one labeled Na^+ and the other Cl^- , representing the electrostatic attraction between oppositely charged ions.
- 2. Covalent bond: Shown as two spheres connected by a horizontal line, representing the sharing of electron pairs between atoms.
- 3. Metallic bond: Shown as a cluster of several spheres, representing the delocalized bonding in a metal lattice.
- 4. Hydrogen bond: Shown as a small sphere connected to a larger sphere, which is then connected to another small sphere, representing the weak intermolecular attraction between a hydrogen atom and an electronegative atom.

A List of Grievances against U.S. and its facade of "Freedom and Justice for all"

Definitions: For Webster's Dic.

Freedom: "a being free, a political liberty, a being ^{able} to act, use, etc. without hindrance or frankness."

Justice: "A being righteous, fair, rightfulness - the use of authority to uphold what is right."

The administration of law does justice to treat fairly or with due appreciation

My line of thought in this presentation is not steady in flow due to the mounting of grievances and charged emotion that generates an outburst personal debauchery

per a citizen of U.S.

- ① Freedom is but an imaginary and an allusive concept ~~granted the American people~~ of political life granted the American, sheep-like bourgeois masses, by their selfish, (capitalistically permissible) sinister and power hungry (whether democratically or not is immaterial) overlords - (who are bribed, paid homage to, and toyed with by ~~and~~ lobbyists) who are in turn hungry (politically & economic), pathological underclass individuals (bastards)

Individuality is the necessary complement of the Universal Spirit which was the subject of our consideration last Sunday - The whole problem of life consists in finding the true relation of the individual to the universal Originating Spirit and the first step towards ascertaining this is to realize what the Universal Spirit must be in itself. We have already done this to a certain extent and the conclusions we have arrived at are:-

that the essence of the spirit is life, love and beauty

Biblegram (telegram) to McArthur

GOD says, Meddle not with them that are given to change. (Proverbs 24:21)

Bated breath, debate, the bated Bated Questions.

Robert refused in Oregon because of not enough Satan-Latin, Cuba Catholic pushinns, and Jew "Blue card" Mexican Catholic dragnet into U.S.A.

Now: Come into my Catholic California web says Hobby spider.

A lying tongue, sly speech, and eloquent orator can take either side and convince the simple.

GOD says, The siple believe every word. (Proverbs 14:15)

A Catholic will vote Catholic - right or wrong.- just or unjust. Pope puppet Communists. Catholics want Pope-Rome to run and ruin U.S.A. No free speech - Poverty as in Mexico, South America, Spain, and Italy. Catholic Republicans still vote Pope behind the Pope vote booth curtain. Pope Pious spys.

Poverty system - L.B.J. to Catholic Lucid, to priest confession booth, to Pope Pie USA. Spy for Pious.

All today roads lead to Rome. Rome is unamerican.

Lincoln killed by Booth - Catholic confession Booth. Pope's orders. Amelia Earheart - blame Japs. Atomic sub, blame Russia. Air crashes - blame innocent. Titanic sinking: S.S. California refused SOS rescue and stood 10 miles off. (Luke 10:31) - priest passed by on the other side of the wounded man.

GOD says, A poor man is better than a liar.

GOD says, A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches.

GOD says, Choose ye this day whom ye will serve.

GOD says, There is nothing hid that shall not be made Manifest. Mark 4:22 Daniel 2:22-23

Suggest this Biblegram sent to RFE, may use my name. (Matt. 10:42)

Merle N. Matteson

The reason so many need glasses is the doctor use boric acid on baby's eyes., and printing is deliberately too small. Note Boris Carloff's eyes. Rome tell you in many ways of their deliberate destruction of our bodys for Doctors and medication merchants, etc. Rev. 18:3 and 24.

GOD says, Studdy is wearyness of the flesh. Eyes are flesh.

GOD says, Ever learning and never able to come to knowledge of the truth. Yet Million think higher education is a must. Taxes.

GOD says, GOD shall bring every work into judgement, every secret thing, whether it be good, or whether it be evil.

Do you know some Republican or Democrat headquarters that you could send a Biblegram?

The trouble in France is to call attention to the veit conference to stop the war but the Jew's news lie and make us believe its against DeGaul. Pope's Luck of the Irish start roits and blame them on whomever they desire.

GOD calls the Jew Treacherous (teacher). God Divorced the trecherous Jew before the treacherous Jew wrote the New (Jew)

Testament. The Jews received the New Testament as a vented, and said with the old Testament were their fathers storing the whore, etc. Now, the Jew that rock the cradle ruins the world.

Some criticism has been made regarding dues connected with the Rosicrucian Work and the persons who make these criticisms bluntly proclaim spiritual truths should not be sold or paid for and a religious teaching should be given free.

That idea is entirely wrong and is based upon the assumption that Rosicrucian doctrine is a religious or a spiritual school of religious philosophy. The Rose
